Strategies and Tools against Hate Speech

in Face-to-Face Encounters and in Social Media

New skills and competences against hate speech for European citizens

Citizens need therefore new skills and competences to be better prepared to deal with this phenomenon. This is especially true for all those who are working in public positions. Many of them are unprepared to the changes in the way in which our democracy is endangered and which aspects of aggressive communication pose a threat. Arguments Against Aggression project raises their awareness and provides them with tools that help them to cope with hate speech and aggression and handle respective situations.

Against aggressive, racist or xenophobic messages

The general objective of Arguments Against Aggression project is to equip citizens with communication and argumentation skills that they can use in social media sites or real-life interactions whenever they are confronted with aggressive, racist or xenophobic messages, inequalities and gender violence. In this way, they will be able to transform unproductive shouting matches or passive-aggressive avoidance into actually productive conversations that should end with participants having a clearer understanding of each other's views, and build skills and motivation to take action against injustice.

The specific objectives of Arguments Against Aggression

- to develop a catalogue of the most common prejudices and possible answers and communication strategies that can increase the effectiveness of the arguments;
- to compile user-oriented guide and training resources containing argumentation tools and strategies against various kinds of prejudice: refugees and migrants, political extremism, sexual orientation;
- to enable networking and exchange of experience through implementation of an e-platform for the access to all contents and training materials;
- to give immediate access to answer and communication strategies through development of mobile applications for smart phones.
